HOW TO NOT LOSE THE PLOT:

What I learned working at a shelter for homeless youth.

living space.

Our presence should be comforting and
unintrusive.

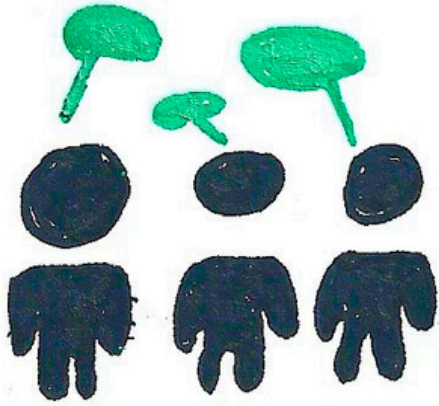

Adultism
is real.

Children have so little freedom, privacy, and control as a demographic. As an adult, I hope I never take advantage of this discrepancy.

Not everyone has the same needs as me. It costs $0 to accommodate these needs.

Disagreement \neq Out to get me

I + isn't about me. To me, it's a job. To them,
it's life. They're not my friends -
reciprocity is it important.

You are not immune to the Stanford
Prison Experiment!

Don't be so afraid
of doing wrong
that you forget to do right.
